Did you know the City of Burbank has a limited Public WiFi Network? This service is available to the general public while visiting the Downtown Area, at all three public libraries, Gross Park and the Joslyn Center. The City of Burbank does not guarantee the privacy of your data and communication while using the service; therefore you use it at your own risk.

The WiFi signal has a radius of roughly 300 ft. or less, based on obstacles, e.g. if you're at the food court in the mall, your signal will be strong, but when you walk to the center of the mall your signal might be lost due to the obstacles between you and the WiFi connection.

Use the following web address <http://p8.meraki.com/network/downtown-burbank> to view a map showing the area covered by the Downtown WiFi.

Want to conserve water and save money this summer?

Follow these five easy tips!

3 days per week works. Even during warm summer months, three days per week irrigation usually provides enough water for lawns to thrive.

Don't water your lawn when the sun is out! A significant amount of water is lost to evaporation when the sun is out, so irrigate in the evening or early morning.

Adjust sprinklers to ensure you are not watering driveways, sidewalks or the street.

Don't use a hose to clean driveways, steps and sidewalks. Use a broom or leaf-blower instead.

Have a pool? Consider investing in a pool cover to dramatically reduce the amount of water lost to evaporation. This can also help reduce your pool maintenance costs.

Benefits of a Community-Owned Utility

In California, there are two main types of utilities: investor-owned and community-owned.

Burbank has a community-owned utility, Burbank Water and Power. Being community owned means BWP works in the best interest of Burbank and its residents and businesses. Unlike an investor-owned utility, like Southern California Edison or Pacific Gas and Electric, our investors are our customers and our goal is to maximize community benefit by ensuring our rates are competitive, our service reliability remains high, and our commitment to environmental protection stays constant.

We're happy to report that BWP's electric and water rates are among the lowest in the region and our service reliability is one of the highest in the nation! Our daily pledge to Burbank is that we will never lose sight of our role in this community and the fact that we work for you!

No Styrofoam at Burbank Recycle Center

The Burbank Recycle Center does not accept or recycle Expanded Polystyrene (EPS or Styrofoam™). Other cities have chosen to recycle EPS but report that the results are disappointing financially and environmentally. The overall percentage of EPS recovered is also disappointing. Styrofoam is more costly to sort from mixed curbside recyclables because of the low density, high handling costs and added densifying equipment required before marketing. The lightweight material breaks and scatters on streets when recycling bins are picked up. Compacting trucks and spinning recycling equipment also break EPS into tiny pieces that easily scatter and end up as contaminants in paper and glass commodities – substantially reducing their market value. EPS particles are also blown along streets, into storm drains, rivers, lakes and oceans.

What you can do: Ask restaurants to use paper food service containers rather than EPS. Aluminum foil, wax paper, paper bags, or one of the compostable packages are widely available. Better still, bring your own clean plastic containers to restaurants for leftovers.

EPS is manufactured from Benzene and Styrene. On June 10, 2011 the EPA added Styrene to their list of possible carcinogens and the Department of Health and Human Services classifies benzene as a human carcinogen.

HELP US KEEP YOUR UTILITY RATES DOWN! Water and Energy Theft Is Illegal

Water and energy theft takes money right out of your pocket. The Burbank community owns the electric and water utility and theft leads to higher rates for all Burbank customers.

Theft of water or energy, the turning on of service, or the removal of BWP meters are not permitted and may result in service disconnection, penalties, fees, and criminal prosecution. All equipment providing service, including transformers, meters, and connection wires, are the property of BWP. For your safety, water and electric service may only be provided via equipment installed and authorized by BWP.

To report suspected water or energy theft, please call 818-238-3700. Your call will be handled confidentially.
